OLD QUESTIONS ARE UNSETTLED

Council Talks Paving and Booze.

P. J. Moran Is the Lowest Bidder for the Brigham Street Work.

New Plan for Construction Will Be Considered in Committee of the Whole.

Both the Brigham street paving and the retail liquor selling questions up before the City Council last night, but, as usual, no definite understanding was arrived at on either proposition. The liquor matter was deferred for one week in order that each Councilman might be supplied with a copy of Fernstrom's amended ordinance. The paying of East South Temple street was referred to the committee of the whole to meet tomorrow night at 7.30 o'clock.

No mention was made of the action of the Board of Public Works in opening the bids for the paving of South Temple street, contrary to the instructions of the Council, which, in a resolution instructed the board not to open the bids until the 15th of the month. In a communication to the City Council Chairman Wall stated the figures of the bidders for the work and recommended the adoption of a new plan for the grading of the thoroughfare.

Moran Was Lowest.

Moran Was Lowest.

Moran Was Lowest.

The bid of Edmend Wilkes was not considered because the proposal was not accompanied by a certifled check for $800 as stipulated in the specification. P. J. Moran, the local contractor, was the lowest bidder, his figures being $101,972 against $112,681, the bid of the Barber Asphalt Faving company. This is for paving South Temple from State to Seventh East street. The bid of Mr. Moran is $2827 lower than that of the City Street improvement company, the lowest bidder at the previous advertisement.

Under the direction of the Board of Public Works a model for a section of the street has been prepared, which, it is said, is entirely satisfactory to nearly all of the property-owners on both sides of the street. The difference in the plan of the board and that of the City Engineer is that in the former slope of the street extends the entire width across from the north to the south side, even the side-walks having more or less of a declivity. On motion of Black the communication, along with several other petitions, was referred to the committee of the whole and the property-owners invited to be present Wednesday evening.

Liquor Squabble Unsettled.

Liquor Squabble Unsettled

A large number of saloon men and restaurant keepers were in attendance last night in the expectation that some action would be taken on the liquor ordinance. A motion by Tuddenham to defer for one week in order to get an opinion from the City Attorney on the legality of Hobday's amended ordinance was lost by a vote of 16 to 5. When the ordinance had been read for the fourth time and defeated by a vote of 9 to 6. Fernstrom's amendment was considered. On the ground that each member should be supplied with a copy of the measure Black moved that the matter be laid over until next Monday night. This motion carried, 19 to 4.

Kelly and other residents on Canyon road filed a protest with the Council last night against the sewer ex-tension along Canyon road from Second to Third street. The protest, along with the petition for the extension, were re-ferred to the City Recorder for report next Monday night.

Fence Must Be Fixed.

A resolution was introduced by Coun-lman Wood, providing that the concliman Wood, providing that the con-tractor repair the fence around the new Federal building, which is said to be dan-gerous to pedestrians. The resolution was adopted and the Street Supervisor was instructed to look after the matter. On recommendation of the City Attor-ney, $1620 was appropriated for the purpose of purchasing the narrow strip of land along the north side of Canyon road where the same joins State street An ordinance levying a tax for the pay ing of Canyon road from State to Secon street was passed unanimously.

To Work Prisoners.

Councilman Black introduced a resolu-tion providing that the chief of police be instructed to put the city prisoners to work improving the road up City Creek canyon. The resolution was adopted

BURGLAR AMONG FISH.

Robbers in Salt Lake Do Their Work in the Early Evening.

Burglars seem to be cultivating a habit of working Salt Lake comparatively early in the evening. Last night some thief, presumably from his work the same man who robbed the Union saloon and knocked out the watch-man's teeth a week ago, entered the California Fish market at 70 West First South.

First South.

The crook secured entrance via the rear door, whose lock he unfastened after cutting through a panel. He rifled the cash drawer and tumbled things about in the office, but secured no money for his pains. The market banks its cash each evening.

Night Watchman Malloy discovered that the place had been entered. He and Patrolman Johnston made an investigation. Both this and the Union saloon burglary took place much earli-er than such crimes usually do.

ORPHAN BOYS STILL ALONE

Nothing Heard From the Relatives.

Kind-Hearted Landlady Extends Temperary Aid to the Lads.

Elder Boy Secures Work and the Younger One Is Sent to the Public School

Robert and Walter Peel, the two young boys who were left entirely alone in Salt Lake City last week by the death of their father upon his arrival from San Francisco, as yet have heard nothing from their relations in New York, and the older boy, Robert, aged 15, has began to suffer anxiety over the predicament of himself and his brother.

Coroner's Letters Unanswered.

All the property or money which the lads possess is a draft for $250, out of which must be taken the expense of their father's burial. Coroner Frank Clark sent thirty letters to New York to persons supposed to be interested In the welfare of the boys, and as yet no word has been received from any of them. Some of the relations are supposed to be wealthy. The older boy, becoming anxious over the state of affairs, appealed to Chief of Police Lynch to help him locate his friends, This was promised in case the letters sent by Coroner Clark fall to bring the desired answers,

It seems that, when the father came to Salt Lake with his two boys, he had no suspicion that he was a dying man, He imagined that his case was persistent bronchitis, when it was really consumption. To Salt Lake he had come in hope of recovering his health. When he began to suspect something of the seriousness of his condition, he in-formed the landlady of the Treloar house of his past life.

A Little Romance.

His wife died ten years ago in Se-attle, and he raised the boys, three in number, himself. The story of his marriage was that old one of parents who considered the bride too good for the man, and never forgave. His wife's maiden name was McGurrin, and her parents were wealthy owners of vast oyster beds. Things were so unpleasant for the young couple by reason of the attitude of her parents that, after a few years of wedded life in their native home, they concluded to go West, where they settled in Seattle. After two years the wife died, leaving her husband with two babies and a boy aged six. From all that can be learned the father proved exceptionally faithful to the trust.

Was a Devoted Son.

Peel told Mrs. Treloar that his son, Robert, had taken the place of a wife and sister during his sickness. The boy prepared all his father's meals with his own hands, and never left the sick man for more than a moment at a time. There is an older brother, uged to be some family estrangement, as the boys refuse to go back to him, the time of his father's death he w "Don't let the funeral expenses exceed $50; send the rest of the money to me with the boys." Both boys absolutely refuse to return. One reason they give is that he earns only $10 per week and annot support them.

Robert Has a Job.

"The boy, Robert, went to work this norning for Mr. Gardner of the clothing store," said Mrs. Treloar, "but the little fellow is as near nervous prostration as a child can be, from having been so closely confined with his father and from the anxiety over the future. I do not keep boarders, but I feel so sorry for the boys that I have them eat and room near my own children. But, of course, I cannot always do that for I have six of my own. I do so hope that they will find good homes here. I should think someone would want two boys as bright as they are, and having been raised by an educated father, as he evidently was, I should think some family not blessed with children might take them. The father was a man of refinement and very much attached to his children, and we all grew to like him even in his short stay here. I tell you it was pitiful when we went to that funeral, There was the hearse and one carriage, and those boys cried like their little hearts would break when the coffin was lowered.

Walter Goes to School.

"I had the youngest boy, Walter, go to school this morning, as I felt it was better to have him go with my children than to be running the streets. Both boys needed clothing badly, and I had Coroner Clark buy some for them. It is a most pitiful case, and I think someone ought to take an interest in someone ought to take an interest in those two lonely children."

The boys will be at the Treloar house until some further word is received, or

Butte Is Still Awaiting Stevens

Mulock Goes to Meet Marshal Love and Supposed Murderer of Vermilion.

Frank Mulock is now either en route to Fort Benton, Mont., or in that place investigating the delay in the arrival of Marshai Love and his prisoner, George Stevens, supposed to be the murderer of Druggist W. A. S. Vernilion. Late advices from Butte state that Mulock, made anxious by the fall-ure of Love and his prisoner to appear, hurried away to find out the cause. From what can be learned Stevens seems to have been in a serious condition from loss of blood incident to his attempt to commit suicide. Probably it has been necessary to keep him up. it has been necessary to keep him under surgical attention in Fort Benton, at least so last evening's Butte dispatches to The Tribune would indicate.

In Butte the arrest of Stevens has awakened wide interest and there is, among officers and others, considerable anxiety to see the men when he is anxiety to see the man when he is brought to that city.

EXCELLENT PROGRAMME.

Miss Berkhoel Takes Part in Vocal Entertainment.

Both good taste and judgment were displayed in the programme given at Mrs. Agnes Osborne's studio last night by her pupils, assisted by Miss Agatha Berkhoel, who provided the vocal entertainment. The numbers were well chosen and the mistake of extreme length, which is so often made in programmes of this nature, was carefully

Of the standard of the performances shown by Mrs. Osborne's pupils warm praises were heard from the audience. They proved that careful preparation had been made, and the technique of the performers spoke for the soundness of the tuition they had received. Miss Berkhoel's solos were much en-loyed, especially the second, but her singing would probably have been more appreciated had she chosen ongs that are better known. While sey were both enjoyable and well written, they have no particular merit nor fame, and there are so many com-positions that have both without being hackneyed.

Coach Breaking in His Huskies

Yesterday Was a Strenuous Day for the University Pigskin

Artists.

Morning and afternoon practice was the bill of fare handed out by Coach Maddock to his bunch of huskies at the "U, of U." yesterday. Over a dozen long-haired fellows, attired in their big-legged trousers, with head and shins well protected, turned out to enjoy the feast, and for two hours Maddock had them beat a merry chase up and down the field, as he punted, called signals or put them through the latest stunts known to the chiefs of pigskin buckers.

Maddock has certainly inherited the hurry up" habit from Yost and he seems to take unbounded delight in keeping the boys busy and what is more they seem to take equal delight in doing what he commands. He' has the teaching stunt down to a fine art and has already won the hearts of all his men.

The boys were slightly hindered in their morning's work by the tall weeds which covered the campus, but a half dozen men were immediately supplied with scythes and pitchforks by Professor Cummings and Manager Riser and by noon the field was cleared. Bennion and Captain Wade were conspicuous among the candidates who turned out for practice and Coach Mad-dock kept a close cye on their work and gave them many helpful suggestions Other men on the field were "Fuzzy" Moore, last year's speedy half-back, Pete Lawrence who played half-back, Pete Lawrence, who played full, and Sorenson, an old Aggle line man. Forbes, Hyde, Kingsbury and several other apprants were also on the field. The work consisted mostly of catching and punting, but at the conclusion of each practice Maddock put his men through a little drill work that was characterized by life and vim. Jimmy Wade was ordered to call out the signals as though he were calling the signals as though he were calling the signals as though he were calling to the citizens in the city below and to the tune of his merry chimes the players galloped up and down the field until they panted and well nigh foamed at the mouth.

Today and every day from now on practice will continue. Today's call will see George Worthen, the star center of the invincible "Red and Black" team, on the field. Russell, the starend of last year, will also be there, as will his team mate, Peterson, last year's husky tackle. These, with many other, prominent men, will make to. other prominent men, will make to-day's new additions, and every day from now on the squad will grow,

Above all, it is essential to restore the morale, affected by almost unprecedented trials and difficulties. A Russian offensive movement will be impossible for a long time.
